

Transilvania University of Braşov, Romania

Study program: Chinese Language and Literature – Romanian Language and Literature

Syllabus for ERASMUS + students

Faculty of Letters

Study period: 3 years (bachelor)

1st Year

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of Credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Contemporary Chinese Language I		Chinese	4	2	2	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): Covering six semesters in three years, the Contemporary Chinese Language course is meant to offer students an in-depth approach to the historical development and modern studies of Chinese language. During their first year, keeping pace with the introductory lessons of the Practical Reader, the students will get to learn the history of Chinese writing and language standardisation process, the evolution of the tonal system as well as an overall presentation of basic word and phrase structure.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of Credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Chinese Civilization I		Chinese	3	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The course is based on lectures on both the history of Chinese civilization and on ethnographic elements on the daily culture of the Chinese people at home and abroad (such as Traditional Chinese Medicine, Qigong, martial arts, gastronomy, etc.).

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Practical Course: Chinese Language Practice I		Chinese	3	-	4	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): Pronunciation in Chinese. Syllables and tones. Combining syllables in words, combining tones. Word order in Chinese. The interrogative sentence. The sentence with the verb shi. Interrogative pronouns. The verbal predicate and the alternative affirmative-negative interrogative form. The numeral. Time and place structures. Double object verbs. The dative object. The modal verbs.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Contemporary Chinese Language II		Chinese	5	2	2	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): Covering six semesters in three years, the Contemporary Chinese Language course is meant to offer students an in-depth approach to the historical development and modern studies of Chinese language. During their first year, keeping pace with the introductory lessons of the Practical Reader, the students will get to learn the history of Chinese writing and language standardisation process, the evolution of the tonal system as well as an overall presentation of basic word and phrase structure.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Chinese Civilization II		Chinese	4	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The course is based on lectures on both the history of Chinese civilization and on ethnographic elements on the daily culture of the Chinese people at home and abroad (such as Traditional Chinese Medicine, Qigong, martial arts, gastronomy, etc).

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Practical Course: Chinese Language Practice II		Chinese	4	-	4	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The degree complement. The sentence with the ba preposition. The jiu and cai adverbs. The de degree structure. The comparative. The emphatic construction shi... de. The progressive aspect. The perfected aspect. The concessive clause. The passive sentence. The result complement.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese 1C: The image of China at Romanian travellers		Chinese	2	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The course takes advantage of the relatively early establishing of cultural and political relationships between China and Romania, starting with Nicolae Milescu's diplomatic mission, and continuing with visits of writers, journalists and other types of Romanian travellers to China, during Communism and the post-Communist epoch.

To the extent there are written texts – and there are plenty of them – the course will analyse the image of the Chinese, of Chinese culture, briefly, the representations Romanians made about China, as well as the confrontation of the image obtained by study, and the real one, obtained through the travel.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese 1C: Chinese Mythology		Chinese	2	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The Chinese Mythology elective course aims to present to the students from the Chinese Language and Literature - Romanian / English / French / German Language and Literature Study Program an introduction to the vast mythology of China, which includes, along with the legend of the creation of the world, the heroes (Huangdi, the archer Yi etc.), mythological animals (the dragon, the tiger, the phoenix, the Qilin unicorn, the Fu lion, the Nian monster etc.), ancient Taoist and Buddhist deities.

2nd Year

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Chinese Literature and Culture I		Chinese	8	4	2	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The Chinese Literature course, with a duration of four semesters, covers the second and third year of study and begins with the Classics and the presentation of the life and thought of Masters such as Confucius, Laozi, Mengzi and Xunzi. The students will, thus, be able to begin the study of the Chinese thought which enables them to better understand China throughout its history up until the present times. The first stage in researching and analysing Chinese written texts will provide examples of literature as art or as historical and even scientific documents.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Contemporary Chinese Language III		Chinese	8	4	2	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The second year provides a deeper research into the language structure, this time with the focus on the morphological and syntactic items such as verbs, adjectives, numerals and measure words to special phrases and their relationships, together with their modern and contemporary use. Students will acquire skills allowing them to teach entry level Chinese. The course is concentrated on theoretical explanations illustrated with numerous examples taken from different kinds of texts and examples from literature to online communication.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Practical Course: Chinese Language Practice III		Chinese	8	-	6	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The adverb. The yibian ... yibian construction. The result complements (2) and the sentence with ba. The de structural particle. The you ... you structure. The pivotal sentence. The zhiyao ... jiu structure. The reduplication. The sentence without subject. The adverb. The yibian ... yibian construction.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese 1C: The image of China at Romanian travellers		Chinese	3	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The course takes advantage of the relatively early establishing of cultural and political relationships between China and Romania, starting with Nicolae Milescu's diplomatic mission, and continuing with visits of writers, journalists and other types of Romanian travellers to China, during Communism and the post-Communist epoch.

To the extent there are written texts – and there are plenty of them – the course will analyse the image of the Chinese, of Chinese culture, briefly, the representations Romanians made about China, as well as the confrontation of the image obtained by study, and the real one, obtained through the travel.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese 1C: Chinese Mythology		Chinese	3	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The Chinese Mythology elective course aims to present to the students from the Chinese Language and Literature - Romanian / English / French / German Language and Literature Study Program an introduction to the vast mythology of China, which includes, along with the legend of the creation of the world, the heroes (Huangdi, the archer Yi etc.), mythological animals (the dragon, the tiger, the phoenix, the Qilin unicorn, the Fu lion, the Nian monster etc.), ancient Taoist and Buddhist deities.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Chinese Literature and Culture II		Chinese	8	4	2	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The Chinese Literature course, with a duration of four semesters, covers the second and third year of study and begins with the Classics and the presentation of the life and thought of Masters such as Confucius, Laozi, Mengzi and Xunzi. The students will, thus, be able to begin the study of the Chinese thought which enables them to better understand China throughout its history up until the present times. The first stage in researching and analysing Chinese written texts will provide examples of literature as art or as historical and even scientific documents.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Contemporary Chinese Language IV		Chinese	8	4	2	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The second year provides a deeper research into the language structure, this time with the focus on the morphological and syntactic items such as verbs, adjectives, numerals and measure words to special phrases and their relationships, together with their modern and contemporary use. Students will acquire skills allowing them to teach entry level Chinese. The course is concentrated on theoretical explanations illustrated with numerous examples taken from different kinds of texts and examples from literature to online communication.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Practical Course: Chinese Language Practice IV		Chinese	8	-	6	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The fraction, the percentage. The yi... ye/doubu structure. The extensive use of the qilai structure and of the direction elements developed. The zai and you adverbs. Double negation. Reduplication of verbs and adverbs. The complex sentence (1).

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese 2C: Chinese Art	ACH4	Chinese	3	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The Chinese Art (An Introduction) elective course aims to offer the students from the Chinese Language and Literature - Romanian / English / French / German Language and Literature Study Program, a glimpse of some of the main artistic fields where Chinese people excelled throughout its millenary history and even nowadays: visual arts (calligraphy, ink painting), martial arts, performing arts (dance, Beijing Opera), the art of tea (Cha Dao), and some Chinese architectural elements. The information presented during the theoretical course is continued with practical activities during the seminar.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese 2C: The Chinese in Romania		Chinese	3	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The course is being addressed to students interested in the Chinese community in Romania and also on both economic and cultural exchanges between Romania and China, from an ethnographical point of view.

3rd Year

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Chinese Literature III	LitCH3	Chinese	3	2	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The second stage, which constitutes the topics approached during the third year, concentrates on the history of modern and contemporary literature which are an integral part of the Chinese cultural and even political development. Writers and social activists such as Lu Xun, Mao Dun, Lao She, Hu Shi, Chen Duxiu as well as Mo Yan, Yan Lianke and so on, both in original or contemporary translations, will be studied in detail with the involvement of the students in analysing the literary trends and the role of literature in shaping the Chinese thought.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Contemporary Chinese Language V	LCCH5	Chinese	3	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The third year takes the study to the level of phrase structure patterns, semantic and vocabulary analysis and communication strategies and aims at helping the students conduct their own research, by introducing them to the specialised literatures and encouraging them to construct their own point of view. This course is also useful in accompanying students who also take their first steps in reading Chinese literature and to acquire the necessary skills in translation as well as to gather the vocabulary needed in order to communicate their scientific reviews concerning theoretical problems in Chinese linguistics.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Practical Course: Chinese Language Practice V	CPCH5	Chinese	3	-	3	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The complex sentence (2). The double interrogation. Modal particles. Prepositional phrases. Vocabulary exercises. Journalistic text translations.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese 3C: Daoism: texts, concepts and legends	DTCL5	Chinese	2	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The course is a workshop on classical Daoist and pre-Daoist texts (Yijing, Daodejing, Zhuangzi) with a focus on fundamental concepts such as Dao, yin-yang, qi, etc., as well as on Daoist parables and myths, also in connection with the contemporary world and the trade related with Chinese cosmology: Qigong, martial arts, Chinese medicine.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese 3C: On the Ethics of Yielding: The Chinese Soft Power	ECIC5	Chinese	2	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The course is based on a lexical and cultural history of the Chinese notion of yielding (rang) – a key notion regarding the understanding of the Chinese version of the concept of soft power, from feudal times to contemporary China.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese 4C: Classical Chinese Literature in Romanian Translation	LCHCTR5	Chinese	2	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The course places itself at the crossroad of comparative literature, cultural studies, and literary translation studies. During the lectures and in the class-work, there will be discussed a series of issues connected with various aspects of literary translation theories, with their practical impact on the translated texts, as well as the possibility of translating cultural differences, or problems connected to the circulation of the works and their possible influence, and the situation of the classical literary canon, when caught at the contact point of two cultures.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese O4C: Translation Issues of Contemporary Chinese Literature	PTLCHC5	Chinese	2	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): Translating literary works by contemporary Chinese writers is generally considered a much easier task than translating the works of classical writers. However, the prose of contemporary Chinese writers is most often sprinkled with fragments of classic texts, poems, slogans or other historical and literary references, but also elements specific to certain areas or ethnicities that require the translator to have a very wide cultural coverage. In this sense, the course proposes to students a series of texts that the Romanian translator is faced with nowadays for analysis and interpretation, we will also inventory the range of solutions for solving some difficult situations that arise in translation, while considering the possibility of inviting some well-known translators to a series of discussions with students about their experience.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Chinese Literature IV	LitCH4	Chinese	3	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): In both years, students will have to follow the latest interviews and studies published within the most important specialised journals and to be able to select and integrate the most relevant information. The bibliography for this course is subject to continuous update but is also grounded on monumental studies such as those authored by Anne Cheng, Kirk Denton, Lau & Goldblatt, Peng Yuan-chi and so on.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Contemporary Chinese Language VI	LCCH6	Chinese	3	2	-	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The growth of Chinese presence on international market causes the good command of Chinese language to become a sought competence among employees. Wider cultural relationships formed with China as well as interest in tourism are connected with growing demand for people with good knowledge of Chinese. Acquired competences will allow graduates to become employed at Chinese companies operating on European market as well as at Romanian and European companies working with Chinese partners.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Practical Course: Chinese Language Practice VI	CPCH6	Chinese	3	-	3	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The complex sentence (4). Connectors. Vocabulary exercises. Retroversion. Composition. Journalistic text translations.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese 05C: Confucianism in the Sino-Japanese-Korean Space	CSSNC6	Chinese	2	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The first part of the course offers a presentation of the fundamental elements of the Confucian tradition as they emerged in the Chinese space between the 4th century BC. and 12th century AD. Then we will trace the adoption and adaptation of Confucian concepts in Korea and Japan in conjunction with Buddhism. In the second part of the course, we will focus on the Confucian elements existing in contemporary society in the Sino-Japanese-Korean space and their forms of manifestation, both within family relationships, within corporate culture and also in popular culture.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese 5C: Daoism: history, community and practice	DICP6	Chinese	2	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): The course contains a series of lectures on the history of Daoism from school of thought to religion, on the development of Daoist communities and their relationship with the political power, as well as on Daoist practices, such Alchemy (Neidan).

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese O6C: Social Media in Contemporary China, between Censorship and Propaganda	RSCHCCP6	Chinese	2	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): In contemporary China, despite the massive reliance on the Internet in everyday life, information is subject to increasingly strict censorship. In the case of social networks, following the precedent set by the "Arab Spring" (2010), the expression and circulation of opinion is intensively supervised by an increasingly complex apparatus, generating very interesting reactions among users. These reactions will be discussed and analysed together with the students, looking primarily at how the Chinese language can be distorted in order to evade censorship but also the standard formulas used in state propaganda.

Course title	Code	Language of instruction	No. of credits	Number of hours per week
				course	seminar	laboratory	project
Elective Course in Chinese 6C: Confucianism and common cultural identity in the Sino-Japanese-Korean space	CICCSNC6	Chinese	2	1	1	-	-

Course description (Syllabus): Introduction to Neo-Confucianism: diachronic perspective from Song China to Joseon Korea. Constitution of Chinese Confucian Orthodoxy canon – the thinkers' works Zhou Dun I, Cheng Hao, Cheng Yi. Zhu Xi Scholar and Confucian synthesis from Song. Taking over the Neo-Confucian paradigm in Joseon Korea in the works of Yi Hwang and Yi I scholars. Echoes of Confucianism in Japan: Fujiwara Seika, Hayashi Razan, Yamazaki Ansai.